Goldfine of Winthsop, both mem bers of the Pine Tree society, hav launched an endowment fund fo the Hyde Memorial with a donation of $25,000.

John Sedgwick Hyde, grand father of Mrs. Fenn, Mrs. Huggard and Mrs. Knights, built Elmhurs on the site of a mansion erected by his father, Gen. Thomas Wor cester Hyde, founder of the Batt Iron Works. The property was originally owned by Zina Hyde father of the general.

On the death of John Sedgwick Hyde, Eimhurst passed to his son John Holmes Hyde, whose daughters offered the estate to the Pine Tree society. John Holmes Hyde was president of the Maine Goll association at the time of his death ten years ago.

Regardless of the decision made by the directors of the society relative to the offer of the Hyde heirs the society will maintain its campa at North pond, Rome, it was stated

Not included in the offer of the Hyde heirs is a small farm at the rear of the estate and land leased to the Navy during the war.
